Read the following passage and answer the questions that follows:

Mankind is one, but people belong to different backgrounds. They are at different stages of historical evolution and they hold diverse political beliefs. This diversity is essential for the very existence of the world. Attempts to impose doctrines of uniformity have not only failed but have proved to be a danger to peace. Our policies are based on appreciation of this truth co-existence, although regarded by some as truism, is still the only possible basis for international relations. It is rooted in present day realities and provides the framework for the survival of the human race.

Read the following passage and answer the questions.

The epic or heroic poem is a long narrative poem on a great and serious subject, related in an elevated style and centered on a heroic or a quasi-divine figure on whose actions depends the fate of a tribe, a nation or the human race. The traditional epics were shaped by a literary artist from historical and legendary material which had developed in the oral tradition of his nation during a period of expansion and warfare. Homer's 'Iliad' and 'Odyssey' belong to this group. The literary or secondary epics were composed by sophisticated craftsman in deliberate imitation of the traditional form. Of this kind is Vergil's. The 'Aeneid' which later served a chief model to John Milton's Paradise Lost and also in turn become a model to Keats fragmentary epic 'Hyperion'.

Read the following passage and answer the questions

A well-dressed young man entered a big textile shop one evening. He was able to draw the attention of the salesmen who thought him rich and likely to make heavy purchases. He was shown the superior varieties of suit lengths and sarees. But after casually examining them, he kept moving to the next section, where readymade goods were being sold and further on to the hosiery section. By then, the salesman had begun to doubt his intentions and drew the attention of the manager. The manager asked him what exactly he wanted and he replied that he wanted courteous treatment. He explained that he had come to the same shop in casual dress that morning and drawn little attention. His pride was hurt and he wanted to assert himself. He had come in good dress only to get decent treatment, not for getting any textiles. He left without making any purchase.
